

BIDS ALL GOODBYE

CENA WARD LAYS DOWN THE BATTLE FOR HER DAILY BREAD.

She Applies to the County Commissioner in Her Chair Car and Asks Them to Send Her to the Poor House—She has Been a Familiar Figure on the Streets, But Says That Her Relations Prove Her From Home in January Because She Attended the Salvation Army—She is Unable to Work and Wants Shelter.

Cena Ward and her chair-car will not be seen upon the streets of Wichita hereafter as frequently as heretofore. There has come a change in the whereabouts of the woman who day in and day out wheeled her chair backward and forward over the street.

She was at the court house yesterday and went like a child as she told her sad story to the commissioner who could do nothing else than send the woman to the poor farm.

She claimed that she had been turned out of home by her relatives for the reason that she persisted in attending the Salvation army and that notwithstanding the fact that she has four brothers and three sisters and was able to make her way with her sewing machine that since January 27 she has been forced to stop altogether among strangers.

She has been helpless since she was two years old at which time she received a fall which injured her spinal column. She was unable to walk and her condition of the treatment which she had received at the hands of her relatives, but of this neither the Eagle nor its readers are particularly interested.

She wanted her friends to know where they could find her hereafter and that the work she had solicited would be finished up and delivered as promised. Notwithstanding the fact that she is unable to walk a step yet she is able to run a sewing machine and with her needle she can pay her way.

She says that the reason she always attended the Salvation army was because it was the only place where religious worship was held that she could enter with her wheel chair.

She desires to return thanks to her many friends in Wichita who have from time to time patronized her library and she wants them to know where she is and not to forget to write to her. She says that she is not ashamed of going to the poor house, but that the disgrace attached to it is to those who are forced to be there by the ties of relation and able to assist her to make a living.

WAR OVER THEATRE HATS
Representatives of Ohio Legislature are in the city.

Columbus, O., March 16.—Having steered its way successfully through the rocks and reefs of the Harris local option measure and an exorbitant rise in the liquor tax, the Ohio legislature is now in the city of Columbus, Ohio, for the purpose of adjourning, when they strike a case yesterday that promises to wreck all their hopes and dash the party prospects to the ground.

For many years young, handsome Representative Paul Fossick of the Hamilton county delegation has, like many of his fellows, been a patient sufferer from the "theater hat" malady, which has been epidemic in America for so many years. He has paid his money at the box office for the purpose of gratifying his taste for histrionic art and again, only to find himself an unwilling attendant at a military display.

A few nights ago Sir Henry Irving and his company of players visited the Queen City and Fossick expended $5 for two seats. When he went to the seats, there, to his horror, he found a man, like a stand in a Florentine market place. In vain did the moving scenes of Sir Arthur Burne-Jones pass before him. He paid his money and sat out on the sidewalk. The hollow voice of King Arthur, the words of Merlin and the knights came in spasmodic gusts to his ears, but not a glimpse of the stage could he secure.

Then Fossick swore revenge. "I'll ever live to get back to Columbus," quoth he. "I will introduce a bill to fine every woman who dares to sit as much as enter a theater lobby with a tith or a vestige of a hat or a ribbon on her head." And he kept his word. His bill, introduced in the house of representatives, makes it a misdemeanor for any woman to enter a theater, concert hall, or any place of public amusement with a hat on her head. What the result will be is now a question that is disturbing the party managers. Representative Moore, the Democratic leader from Monroe county, who has got a theater in his district, promises to make a party question of it, and it is understood that the Democratic minority will stand together on it. "The only show that came up our way," Mr. Moore is reported to have said, "are circus and revival meetings, and to make the women go out without hats to them would lose me the vote of every man in the district."

Representative Case Stewart, Springfield, has added an amendment to the bill making imprisonment a part of the penalty, and some of the Cleveland members are in favor of adding his sleeves to the bill. It is understood that the members of the Sorosis society of Cleveland favor the measure, but a strong lobby of Cincinnati and Toledo women have already wired Mr. Fossick that they are against him and consider him "a hard line" and a whole lot of more things like that, and threaten to use all their power against the party that adopts such an outrageous upon womanhood.

Governor Bushnell went home to Springfield tonight and could not be seen, but it is said by Colonel Rogers, his private secretary, that the administration is opposed to the measure on the grounds of party expediency.

Senator Elroy M. Avery of Cleveland has secured the passage in both houses of the legislature of his bill prohibiting the sale of cigarettes, cigarette papers or any substitute for either, or any cigar or tobacco to any minor under 18 years of age. This bill was introduced at the suggestion of the director and superintendent of the Cleveland public schools. The evil in that city has recently reached alarming proportions. Small stores have sprung up in the vicinity of many of the schools, where packages containing a piece of gum and a little strip of chewing tobacco were sold in a prize package to children for 5 cents. The effect of the cigarette habit became keenly noticeable in many of the schools. Children grew dull and inattentive, and many of them had to be taken out of school entirely and were threatened with paralysis as a result of this nefarious traffic. The bill, which is now a law, is as follows:

That whoever sells, gives or furnishes to any minor under 18 years of age, any cigarette, cigarette wrapper, or any substitute for either, or any cigar or tobacco, shall be fined not less than $25 nor more than $100, or imprisoned for not less than two, nor more than thirty days, or both, for the first offense, and fined not less than $50, nor more than $200, and imprisoned for not less than five nor more than sixty days, for the second or any subsequent offense.

WERE MARRIED ON SIGHT
Romance Glows in the Love of an Oklahoma Woman.

Guthrie, O. T., March 16.—The King Fisher Free Press has the following. The wonderful convenience and perfectness of Uncle Sam's postal service was still further amplified today by the marriage of George B. Davis, of this city, to Mrs. Sarah E. LeRoy, of Kansas City, Mo. Postmasters are called into service on many occasions.

They receive letters inquiring for missing relatives, fleeing debtors, truant husbands, stolen wives; information as to the best place to locate for business and every other conceivable question, so that the village postmaster has become regarded as a veritable factotum who could be relied on to execute any commission.

So, when our accommodating postmaster, Col. C. J. Nesbitt, received a letter about a month ago asking him to find the writer a good husband he rested not a minute until he had set the machinery in motion which culminated in the romantic marriage of today.

The postmaster cannot execute all the commissions imposed upon him without outside assistance so he called into service Mr. Frank Anstine, of Guthrie, Okla., and Mr. Anstine, in turn, called in Mr. Davis to meet his future wife. When she stepped from the train and was introduced to Mr. Davis the party was delighted, for her ladylike manner and graceful appearance was a happy surprise for those present.

The bride and groom had a short conversation, compared each other with their preconceived ideas and decided to be married at once. And married they were, by Judge Raymaker, at the district court room, where a large crowd of friends of the groom had assembled to witness the ceremony. The ceremony was short and impressive, after which those present went forward and offered their heartfelt congratulations and the friends of George were assured, are the friends of Mrs. Davis, and will welcome her to her new home. In all good wishes the Free Press joins.

LEAN TO INGALLS

IT BRIGHTENS UP FOR THE IRIDESCENT STATESMAN.

Bell's General That J. E. Burton is Looking His Grip on Western Kansas and That Ingalls is Growing Out There Considerably—Clerk Pitts of Garden City Says That Ninety Per Cent of the People Out There Want to Vote for Ingalls and Miss Sutton is Put Down With a Remark of Similar Tenor.

Topeka, Kan., March 16.—The Kansas City Times correspondent here sends the following to his paper:

J. Ralph Burton has met with political reverses in Finney county and Robert W. Hopkins, who was one of his staunch supporters a year ago, has been forced to come out for John J. Ingalls. The Republicans of Finney county, in convention assembled, adopted a resolution without a dissenting vote, in favor of John J. Ingalls for United States senator. Hopkins, who was a member of the house in 1895, is now a candidate for the senate. He appeared before the convention and pledged himself to work for Ingalls, and do all in his power to secure his election. He said that he supported Burton as a matter of fact, but that if a western man were chosen then, it would leave a clearer field for Ingalls. In 1897, he read a letter from John Seaton of Atchison, received at the opening of the session in 1895, assuring him that Ingalls would not be a candidate till 1897. He did not espouse Burton's cause till he had received this assurance.

D. W. Pitts of Garden City, clerk of the district court of Finney county, said in an interview here yesterday that 90 per cent of the Republicans of his section were for Ingalls. He said that on the ballots used at the county primaries there was a blank space left for each voter to record his choice for United States senator, and so far as heard from Burton had received only one vote. Ingalls received the rest. Mr. Pitts said that Mr. Brown, who was defeated by Hopkins, was an Ingalls man, and the nomination of Hopkins was heralded as a Burton victory, but the facts were as herein stated.

Miss Sutton of Dodge City, another of Burton's trusted lieutenants in 1895 made a remark to a Topeka man at the Wichita convention which indicates that sentiment for the iridescent statesman is developing in other parts of the seventh district. The senatorial situation was under discussion. "All hades can't carry Ford county against Ingalls," Mr. Sutton said. It is supposed that Sutton is still in support of this admission on his part is not encouraging to the silver-tongued orator from Abilene.

In 1895 Burton's strength was mostly in the west, that part of the state having gone to his support on account of his irrigation ideas, and he figures on the same backing in the coming campaign. If so of the western counties for Ingalls, and others for the "small fry." Burton's people there were for him, and no other candidate had tried to secure a foothold there. It was also known that Allison would have Iowa with the same enthusiasm and unanimity that McKinley would have Ohio. These were results that had long been anticipated, and no exulting shout over the final consummation could add to or take from the forecast made regarding them. There has been nothing to change the figures that have been made in former predictions. "There have been 133 delegates elected to the St. Louis convention," said Mr. Manning, "of this number, it is claimed that sixty-three are for McKinley, but, outside of Ohio and Kansas, only two McKinley delegates have been elected in the North. Those from the South are from Arkansas, Florida, Mississippi, Texas, Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana and Missouri. There are contesting delegations from several of these Southern states. The other candidates still look upon the presidential nomination as anybody's race and they claim that there has been nothing in the last week to change results."

The Omaha platform, the money question has been commented on today. General Grover says that the Eastern states will not dare adopt gold platform, and that the Republican party will again support the metallic standard. The Eastern men look upon the Ohio plank as more favorable to silver than was anticipated from the speeches of Sherman and Grover in congress and by the silver substitutes for the bond bill. The western Republicans are generally pleased with the declaration and look upon it as a repudiation of the Chicago newspaper that had been claiming that McKinley and trying to dictate a single gold standard platform to the national convention. Its editorial utterances on Tuesday were looked upon as an attempt to dictate to the Ohio Republicans, and the bimetallic platform of the Ohio convention as a blunt repudiation of all mungump interferences with the McKinley campaign.

The silver Republicans do not take very kindly to the currency platform of the Ohio Republicans. They say frankly that it sounds too much like the Minneapolis platform, which has been so much talked about in particular, and especially without an international agreement, which they say is almost hopeless in view of the present conditions. They are not inclined to say that they are not satisfied with the platform of the Ohio convention, but it is apparent that they are not likely to be satisfied with a platform for the national convention if framed on the lines suggested by the Ohio declaration of the Iowa Republicans. They add that the people of the silver states will demand something more tangible than mere promises, and that the silver states will be compelled to look elsewhere than to the Republican party for a candidate. And they add as frankly that they have no expectation of bettering their lot by co-operation with the Democrats, for they expect that party to be dominated by the anti-silver influence as it is at present. Nor do they look to the Populists, for they make no claim in saying that their party with all its absurd theories would be their last resort. Their only plan, then, must be to nominate a candidate and platform of their own. And there is little concealment any longer that this is

TOM REED IS NOT DISCOURAGED
It was Known Kansas and Ohio Would be for McKinley.

Washington, March 15.—General Charles H. Grover returned from the Ohio Republican convention this afternoon and reported that the party was so much harmony and enthusiasm in Ohio as over McKinley at the present time. State pride and personal admiration for McKinley have wiped out the last vestige of sectional feeling in the Republican party and the people and the politicians are all earnest and enthusiastic in their efforts to have McKinley nominated at St. Louis.
